TimberTech® and OrePac Expand Partnership

Wilmington, OH – September 22, 2008 – TimberTech strengthens its relationship with OrePac, a leading wholesale building products distributor headquartered in Wilsonville, OR, with a distribution partnership that expands the TimberTech product line into nine distribution centers in the Western U.S.

Since 2006, OrePac Building Products has distributed TimberTech products in the Colorado, Utah and Wyoming markets through its Denver and Salt Lake City-based facilities. As part of the new agreement, OrePac will distribute TimberTech decking, railing, and fencing in nine distribution centers servicing the states of Alaska, California, Colorado, Idaho, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

“The role of supply chain has always been important in our industry. With TimberTech’s focus on providing dealers, builders, and homeowners with new, innovative solutions, our product offering has continued to grow. This makes the role of strong distribution partners even more important.” Kevin Brennan, Sr. VP of Sales and Marketing.

TimberTech shipped its first decking product in 1997 and now has an expansive offering of alternative decking, railing, and fencing products. OrePac has been serving the needs of pro-dealers, door shops, home centers, manufactured housing and export customers since 1977 and has been distributing composite decking and railing for 15 years.

“OrePac prides itself in partnering with like-minded, leading building materials companies and we feel TimberTech is part of that select group,” announced Brad Hart, President and COO of OrePac. “This move allows OrePac to strengthen our business model by focusing on one decking manufacturer.”

“While innovation has been key to TimberTech’s success as a leader in the decking and railing categories, it is our partnerships with strong distributors that have made TimberTech a leader in the categories we serve, through increased reach of TimberTech products and brand awareness of the TimberTech name,” explained Tom Gramlich, President of TimberTech.
